

The fact that the New Jersey DO NOT CALL program is considered a resounding success by its citizens should be reason enough for the Commission to move on to more important matters of a national scale.

Telemarketing is certainly an intrusion on one's privacy and in many cases is involved with shady or outright fraudulent activity. Perhaps there should be a "Please Do Call" list for those who do not find these unwanted calls obtrusive. Bet you could keep that list on a ruled pad.